LOUG, a Well-to-do Colored resident of Macon, Georgia, has called a convention of colored laboring men from all parts of the State, to meet in that city on the 19th of October. The convention will consider the interests of colored labor in view of foreign immigration and the increase of population. The Democratic press of Georgia speaks very bitterly of the movement.

NEW-YORK STATE ELECTION-REGISTRA-TION.

LARGE DECREASE IN THE LIST OF VOTERS.

Yesterday morning the registration of voters in this city for the ensuing election commenced. According to law, the books were open from sunrise until sunset, at the places announced in THE TRIBUNE for the past few days. As may be seen by the following table, the number of names received is less than one-half the number registered on the first day of last year's registration. The first column of the table, after the Ward numbers, The first column of the table, after the Ward numbers, shows the total number of names registered in 1868; the first, in October, being for the Presidential election, and the second, in November, for County officers. It would appear, from the registration yesterday, that the number of voters will fail far short of that of 1868. The returns were received at the Central Police Office from all the precincts, except the Twelfth, by 10 o'clock last evening. After repeated telegraphic dispatches to that precinct (Harlem), the instrument working very badly, from some cause, word was received that the Sergeaut was coming with the list, and at 10:45 it was received To-day the books will continue open in all those Districts containing over 400 voters, and it is probable that the number registered may be much increased. The purpose, we scarcely need to say, is one that will awaken kindly interest-which, for the sake of a good musician and a worthy man, we trust may express itself in a

A recent writer says: "Stage traditions are A recent writer says: "Stage traditions are sometimes regarded as prejudicial to art, inasmuch as they cramp genius, and the an actor down to old forms and conceptions of a part, from which none but a man of great originality can entirely emancipate himself. The other side of the question is the weightier. The accumulated experience of generations, and the remniscences of the conception of a part by former great actors, are advantages which compensate for the evil of the fetters they impose."—The truth, as usual, lies in the medium.

Mr. Maurice Neville, an actor who appears to usual success on the German stage in Berlin, Vienen, and other continental cities, is about to appear at the Stadt Theatre in this city in Shakespearean tragedy. We have read a great many good words for Mr. Neville, and we incline to anticipate that he will make a mark on our stage. He plays, we believe, both in English and German, and has been especially successful in the character of Othello. His debut here will be watched with interest.

THE DICKENS APHORISM.

The interpretation which we gave to Mr. Dickens's ambiguous profession of his political faith has been adopted by others both here and in England; but we are more than glad to give the correspondents whose notes are printed herewith an opportunity to present a more agreeable exhibit of what Mr. Dickens means to say that he believes:

LORD DICKENS.

To the Editor of The Tribune. Sir: Haven't you misunderstood Mr. Charles Dickens's remark: " My faith in the people governing is, on the whole, infinitesimal-my faith in the people governed is, on the whole, illimitable ?" As I interpret it, it is an expression of want of faith in the few who it, it is an expression of want of rath in the few who rule, a declaration of supreme faith in the many who are ruled. This construction of the sentence makes the sentement embodied in it consistent with Mr. Dickens's life and teachings. On any other theory we must concede that the great novelest is a convert to despotism, and that seems to me entirely incredible.

AN ADMIRER OF DICKENS.

New York, Oct. 12, 1869.

To the Editor of The Tribune. Sir: Have you not, in the above-entitled article, entirely misconceived the meaning of Dickens's political creed ?" "The people governing"-the individuals or class who administer the affairs of Govern ment; "the people governed "-all the rest of society; using people in the popular sense of persons, and separating them into the two classes of governing and gov erned. This struck me, on first reading, as the broadest erned. This struck me, on first reading, as the broadest possible profession of democratic feeling and of faith in humanity, as consistent with all the rest he had said, and as entirely Dickenish in expression; and I had to read the editorial comment twice before I could convince myself that its drift was not simply brony, aimed at Macaulay, Carlyle, Disraeli, &c. Taking the average specimens of persons who get into governing positions anywhere, his infinitesimal faith in them is certainly justiment of the property of th where, his infinitesimal faith in them is certainly justified; and the instances he had just been enumerating of successful effort at self-improvement on the part of workingmen went far to justify his illimitable faith in the masses. Will you not be so good as to say whether this interpretation does not seem at least as logical as the other, while perfectly consistent with Dickens's life-long. record ! Brooklyn, Oct. 12, 1869.

AMENITIES OF RAILWAY TRAVEL.

To the Editor of The Tribane. SIR: Permit me to call your attention to the disgraceful scenes which are enacted every morning on the New-Haven Railroad cars. When I have occasion to come to the city I travei by the train which leaves Norwalk at 8:45. At Stamford a newsboy enters the car. After hastily glancing over their papers, the 50 or 60 regular travelers roll them up into hard balls, and we betide the unhappy stranger! Hats are smashed, lamps are broken, and coats stained with the dirt and filtry tobacco juice which accumulates on these paper cannon-balls, after rolling half a dozen times on the floor. Card-playing, wrestling, fighting, and indecent chorus-singing also form part of the amusements of these ruffians. I have remonstrated with the Superintendent of the line both personally and by letter. He informs me that "it is the business of the Company to provide accommodation for travelers; it is their duty to protect themselves and look after their own comfort." I would ask you, Sir, is this conforming with their own by-laws! I would also ask you, is it fitting that the Company's own employes should be the leaders in this riot! I remain, yours faithfully.

IS IT RIGHT!

To the Editor of The Tribune.

SIR: I had occasion to go to Glen Cove, by the Long Island Railroad, yesterday, on the last train for the day that leaves New-York for that place. I purchased at Hunter's Point a ticket for the round trip, which was Hunter's Point a ticket for the round trip, which was composed of two coupons, one of which I gave the conductor on the train out. This morning I got upon the train at Gien Cove to return, and offered my remaining coupon, but the conductor informed me that it was not good, as it was issued on the 11th, and was marked "Good for this day only." To avoid being ejected from the train I paid the 65 cents demanded. I believe, however, that I was swindled, as the ticket agent knew when he sold me the return ticket that it would be impossible for me to use it on the 11th.

*New-Fork. Oct. 12, 1869. THE LABOR MOVEMENT.

MASS MEETING AT COOPER INSTITUTE. The hall of the Cooper Institute was well filled last evening with workingmen and a few woringwomen, to listen to expressions of sentiments on the subject of Capital and Labor by persons in their own ranks. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Workingmen's Union and the Arbeiter Union of this city, and was called to order at 8 o'clock by Mr. Thomas J. Walsh, who inominated as President Mr. Nelson W. Young of the Workingmen's Union. Before taking the chair, Mr. Young said : FELLOW-WORKINGMEN: I appreciate the compliment

Walsh, who inominated as President Mr. Neison W. Young of the Workingmen's Union. Before taking the chair, Mr. Young said:

PELLOW-WORKINGMEN: I appreciate the compliment you have paid me by electing me your presiding officer, and it is an honor I shall long remember with pride and satisfaction. We have met together to-night to talk over matters bearing upon the great cause in which we are enlisted, and to give expression to our views on the labor movement—a movement that is at the present time attracting the attention of ail clusses and conditions of men. We meet not as partisans, but as free and independent men, with a sincere desire to honor the cause of labor, to demand the enforcement of inst laws passed for our relief, and to denounce as unjust the unequal taxation which is making the rich man richer and the poor man poorer. (Applause.) There is harmony existing at present among us, and we are in a condition to do this, for we are gaining more and moye the conditione of the people at largo. The platform adopted at the National Labor Congréss is doing its work, and its effects will soon be seen and felt. Our condition during the last few years has been greatly ameliorated. Formerly we were looked upon as little better than an organized meb, whose very demands were not compiled with. Now we are found by a discerning public to possess rights and to have the power to obtain them. We are receiving evidences that our true position is beginning to demonstrate that it is necessary to be appreciated—the literation of the preserved. Labor with compel the monied and political aristocracy to loosen its grasp upon the public health and allow capital to invost in the legitimate channels of trade. But there is one class of men who view the strife in which we are engaged with uneasness and fear. I mean the politicians who tax us unjustly, and who laugh to scorn the united demands of capital and labor for an honest administration of public, State, and mustipal and convenient apartments, and dray our workingmen. the workingsea.

Mr. Thomas Connolly, a delegate from the Labor Congress of Birmingham, and the bearer of a message of sympathy with the workingmen of the United States, was then introduced, and spoke in substance as follows:

Mr. Chairman, Ladiez, and Gendemen: There is no time for preface, and I will go straight to my work. I shall begin by teling you that I am prouder to be the bearer of that message of good will from my fellow workingmen than if the British Government was to appoint me an ambassador to any power in Europe. [Applause.] The proudest position that any workingman can aspire to I feel that I am occupying now—that is to be the ambassador of 600 or so trade societies who are marching to freedom. My friends, there is no person better entitled to a decent, honorable existence than those whose labors elevate the capitalist. We have banded ourselves together in bands of brotherhood, and, by working with each other, shoulder to shoulder, we extorted from the employers of labor in Ireland something like an adequate reward for that labor. [Applause.] I am glad that you here are alive to protect your interests. There is no other plan which will so effectually protect your interests as well-regulated trade societies. In our country we have raised and maintained all wages. We have administered comfort and consolation to the diseased and distressed in our several trades' societies, and obtained the enforcement of the laws written in our statute-books for our protection. We know that there is always a tact products and the enforcement of the laws written in our statute-books for our protection. We know that there is always a tacit understanding among the employers that they will get as much labor as they can for the least possible price. Now, should not we self our labor, the only thing we have, for the greatest possible price we can get for it? We can see that since we have had the limited suffrage given to us a great change has taken place in the manner in which our interests have been looked after by the members of Parliament. You, with greater franchise privileges, cannot only ask but demand recognition of your rights, and, failing to get them from the politicians in power, you can elect your rulers from your own ranks. The speaker concluded his remarks by giving accounts of the prosperity of different trade societies in England.

Mr. James A. Burke, of the painters, then made a few remarks, and was followed by Mr. Conrad Kuhn, in German, Mr. Richard Matthews, Mr. Alexander Troup of Typographical Union, and Mr. Eliss of the plasterers.

THE MEETING OUTSIDE.

Outside large crowds collected in front of each of the platforms, which had been erected in the square, facing the entrance to the Hall. A large calcium hight illuminated the entire square, and previous to the opening of the meeting there was a display of fireworks. The platform was occupied by the Trades Union, presiding, and the Kuights of St. Crispin, a German Association, numbering 400 members, Mr. P. Honorighauser of the Cabinet Makers' Association, presiding, and the kinghts of St. Crispin, a German Association, numbering 400 members, Mr. P. The speaker alluded to the State Prison management, saying that the convict labor system, as it is now conducted in these prisons, is an injury and an injustice to the workingman. He was followed by John A. Walsh, Patrick Walsh, and James Carr, who made short speeches urging the election of workingmen to legislative positions. From the German stand a very interesting speech was delivered in that language by John R. Bassing. He said our City Government is corrupt. In ten years it had increased the debt from $5,00,000 to $15,00,000. He referred to the railroad monopolies created by the National Government. That the Pacific Railroad controlled the States of California, Nevada, Oregon, and Kansas, and no United States Senator could now be elected from any of these States unless in the interest of this Company. He was followed by Messra. J. Utz, F. Tourrell, F. Shaffer, and L. Lutz, after which the meeting dispersed.

NEW-YORK ECLECTIC MEDICAL COLLEGE.

The opening of the Winter course of lectures f the New-York Eclectic Medical College took place last evening, in Room No. 24, Cooper Institute. Severa. members of the Board of Trustees, with the Faculty of the College, the Matriculating Class, and a number of the friends of the institution were present. Prof. R. 8 Newton, President of the Faculty, presided. Prof. J. M. F. Browne, who fills the Chair of Physiology, made the opening address, in which he sketched the history and opening address, in which he sketched the history and and principles of Eclecticism, and pointed out the course of study which the pupils would be expected to follow, and the particular parts to which their attention would be directed. A peculiarity of the course of instruction in this College is, that it admits students of both sexes on equal terms, and this, Prof. Browne remarked, the Trustees regarded, not as a concession to women, but as a piece of simple justice. The College was chartered in 1955, and has already attained to a very satisfactory degree of success. During the last year it had graduated forty-seven pupils, of both sexes, and both the male and female graduates were meeting with most satisfactory success in their profession. Dr. Wilder, President of the Board of Trustees, being called upon, made a few remarks, in the course of which he said that he helipyed the day was not far disbeing called upon, made a few remarks, in the course of which he said that he believed the day was not far distant when it would be deemed the duty of the physician, not only to cure, but to prevent disease, and when intelligent physicians would be paid to teach the people the laws of health, as now dergymen were paid to watch over their morals. Prof. Allen also made a short address, referring to the changes which Eelecticism had already wrought in the practice of medicine, and the beneficial results which were already obvious therefrom. The course of lectures commences to-day. course of lectures commences to-day.

You see, when we grow old our tastes and habits become fixed, and they are hard to change to suit another. I believe, like Franklin, that matrimony ought to be encouraged. But at the present day a young man who has not inherited a fortune, and one who must rely upon his own efforts for every cent that he gets, will find difficulties in the way."

The New-York Presbytery met yesterday in the church at the corner of Tenth-st, and Universityplace. The Rev. Mr. Bedter was dismissed to the Presbytery of New-Orleans, Synod of Mississippi, and the Rev.
Dr. Nightingale to the Presbytery of Mohawk, Synod of Aibany. A petition was read from the Yorkville Church, asking for the installation of the Rev. Mr. McNaughten.
The following gentlemen were appointed a committee to inquire into the case: Dr. Scott, Mr. Rowell, and Mr. Baylus.
Reports were presented by Mr. Driggs and Mr. Dripps, licentiates. Drs. Hall, and Scott, and Mr. Walker were appointed by the Moderator to examine the minutes of the General Assembly, and reported. The Rev. Dr. Pinny then addressed the Presbytery with reference to his missionary labors in Africa. A committee, consisting of Drs.
Imbrie, Paxton, and Kellogg, and Eiders Walker and Aitken, was appointed to apportion to the churches the anounts of the different benevolent schemes of the Presbytery, and Dr. Imbrie and Mr. Baylus were appointed a Committee on the Narrative of Religion from the Spring Meeting, and reported in favor of sending that document to the Synod as the report of this Presbytery. LYCEUM OF NATURAL HISTORY.

The Lyceum of Natural History held its regular meeting last night to listen to the addresses announced by the Committee on Chemistry. Dr. Newberry of Columbia College, the President of the Society, eccupied the chair, and the first paper was road by Prof. Chas. A. Joy, also of Columbia College. It was a memoir of Prof. Graham, D. C., L. F. R. S., corresponding member of the French Institute, and for forty years a corresponding member of the Lyceum of Natural History. Not only was Prof. Graham celebrated for his excellent textbook, "The Elements of Chemistry," and his great acquirements, but also as an original discoverer. It is to him that we owe our knowledge of the great principles known to chemists as "Diffusion of Gases," "Diffusion of Liquids," "Dialysis," and "Occluded Hydrogen." Mr. P. Schweitzer read a paper on the Quantitative Separation of Chlorine, Iodine, and Bromine; and Prof. Chas. A. Seely on Dissociation. Concerning this subject, Prof. Joy said: "This newly-discovered and hardly-settled branch of chemistry may be defined as the opposite of association; meaning the separation of compounds into their constituents by the aid of heat and perous tubes. It is similar in its effects to what is accomplished in dialysis by using membranes without applying heat." Mr. O. AN IRISH IMMIGRATION AID SOCIETY. At the Irish Immigration Convention, held in

At the Irish Immigration Convention, held in St. Louis last week, it was decided to form an Association with a capital of $2,000,000, to be called the Irish Immigrant Aid Association, and to be incorporated under the laws of such States as may desire to avail themselves of its privileges. The officers to be a President, Vice-President, Treasurer (who receive no salary), a Secretary, and such other minor officers as may be required. Immigrant Associations auxiliary to the parent one are recommended to be established in all the States, and agents are to be appointed in the different scaport cities in this country to assist immigrants by information and means to their destination As soon as $100,000 is subscribed the Society commences operations. Buying lands for Irish immigrants to settle on is the main object of the Society. As original incorporators, one from each State represented in the Convention was selected, whose duties were defined to be to draw up articles of incorporation, embodying the plans and views of the Convention, and to take the initiatory steps in organizing the Society, after which each State representing stockholders will chose the directors. Those authorized to act as original incorporators are John D. Finney, Missouri; James W. Sheehan, Illinois; John Lillyten, John Hanon, Kansas; Andrew Mullen, Wisconsin; Frank P. Dagan, Washington Territory; B. F. Kennedy, Louisman; James Nell, Iowa; Martin G. Griffin, Nebraska; M. Toher, Minnesota; and J. L. McGinley, Mississippi. The incorporators are to meet in Chicago within 30 days, and prepare and secure the act of incorporation, and within 15 days therefrom elect officers of the Association. Each State and Territory is to be entitled to one director upon subscribing and paying for 500 shares, and an additional director for every additional 2,000 shares. The corporation is to close at the oud of 20 years, and the only desire manifested was to devise means for effective aid to such immigrant.

The Board resumed its business session at the Chapel of the Holy Savior yesterday morning, after the administration of the Lord's Supper, Bishops Oden-heimer, Greene, and Payne being the celebrants. On motion of Mr. William Welsh, the resolution passed on Monday in relation to the collection of information facts, incidents, &c., which may be used to convoy to the clergy hints for inciting increased interest among their people in the Missionary cause, was referred to the Executive Committee for action, so far as the auggestions made seemed practical and desirable. The fifth annual Convention of the Hudson River Sabbath-School Teachers' Association began yes-

This Association embraces all evangelical denominations, and comprises the 17 eastern and south-eastern counties of the State, beginning with Schenectady, Saratoga, and Washington, and ending with Kings, Queens, Suffolk, and Richmond. The Board of Managers of the Association consists of 18 gentlemen, one from each county except Rockland, which has two representatives. There is also a local Reception Committee of 20, of which Waiter Underhill is Chairman. The Convention meets in the spacious and beautiful Washburn-ave. Raptist Church. The opening session was held yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. There were about 200 present, many of them being delegates. Andrew Smith of Kings was unanimously chosen President of the Convention, and eight Vice-Fresidents and four Secretaries were also elected. The remainder of the time until 3 o'clock was spent in devotional exercises. Reports were then received as to the condition and progress of the schools in such counties as were represented. These reports showed that the Sabbath-school work within the limits of this Association is everywhere in a highly prosperous and encouraging state. Several of the delegates slinded to the Sabbath-school prayer-meetings held in their churches, and reported them to be invariably fruitful of much good. Statistics were presented showing that there are in Dutchess County, in round numbers, 25 schools, 300 teachers, 2,500 scholars, and 33 conversions during the year. In Ulster County, which has 19 towns, there are 186 schools, 2,400 teachers, 12,500 scholars in the Protestant schools alone, and 384 conversions, or about 3 per cent of the county are in the Protestant Sabbath-schools. Rehmond County has 5 towns, 37 schools, 73 officers and teachers, and 4,329 scholars, 84 of whom have been converted during the year. In Suffolk County there are 9 towns, 162 schools, 1,981 teachers and officers and teachers, and 4,529 scholars, 84 of whom have been converted during the year. In Suffolk County there are 9 towns, 1620 scholars, and phibalies to get welve hundred copies of a paper containing an account of its proceedings. After the reception of these reports, the opening address was delivered by the Rev. J. L. McNair of this city, upon "County Institutes, their proper proportion of time in Association Meetings." ## THE SWINDLERS AGAIN.

The fools certainly are not yet extinct, or else the knaves would not so well thrive. Over a year ago THE TRIBUNE published an expose of the swindles which were being practised by the mountebanks and lot lery louts of this city. The article made havec among the plans of these sharpers, and until recently the city has enjoyed a sweet surcease of all this knavery. Again the men are raising their heads. Wall-st. failures have vivifled and inspired them with a desire to essay their games.

all these and more too are offered to a generous and too ingenuous public. The counterfeiters are flooding the inland towns with their lithograph letters, promising on the receipt of a little money to "put thousands of dollars in the pocket of the recipient of their letter

Pholon's "Vitalia;" Or, Salvation for the Hair

FOR RESTORING TO GRAY HAIR ITS ORIGINAL COLOR.

PHALON'S "VITALIA" differs utterly from all the "dyes," "colovers," and "restorers" (t) in use. It acts on a totally different peineiple. It is limpld, fragrant, and perfectly innocuous, precipitates ne muddy or flacculent matter, requires no shaking up, and communicates no stain to the skin or the linen. No poper curtain is necessary to conceal its turbid appearance, for the simple reason that it is not turbid. It is to all intents and purposes a NEW DISCOVERY in Toiled Chemistry. For sale by all druegists.
